GOVERNMENTS, STOCKS AND BONDS. NEW YORK, Dec. 19 .- The stock market to-day was exceedingly dull, the transactions for the day being the smallest for days. The tone of trading was barely steady during the forenoon and an attack by bearish room traders upon a few leading stocks broke their prices and the general market sympathized to a limited extent. There were very few orders either side of the market in the morning hours, trading being completely to the professionals and traders than at any previous time doing nothing. The market opened steady to firm, changes from Saturday's final prices being in no case for more than 1 per cent. Dealings were dull and so remained for the entire forenoon, and the general tone was heavy though it was not until after 12 o'clock that any decided movement was seen, when Reading started on down grade and was afterward joined by Richmond West Point, list sympathizing fractionally. The market rallied toward the close but again sagged off and at the close was barely steady at small amounts better than the lowest prices reached. Most of the active list is materially lower to-night considering the small transactions. Railroad bonds were dull but firm to

The train consisted of one passenger car, an engine and snow plow. Eight section men were aboard for the purpose of assisting in clearing the road of the snow which fell in Friday's storm. The passenger car was on the left side of the bridge. The section men, conductor, Brakeman Loudon, a young man named Frank Miller, Engineer Lannigan and Fireman Boucher, thirteen persons in all, were on the engine. They then started, but when the engine. They then started, but when they got on the bridge the plow and engine left the track and fell over into the river, a distance of thirty feet. The tide was high. Only five men could be found. The rest, eight in number, were pinned under the engine, which was lying bottom up in the river. The train was running slowly, as they had plenty of time when they got over the bridge to run at the drift. Following is a list of the killed:

The Supposed Train Robber Admitted to Bail-A Serious Accident.

Special to the Gazette. Texarkana, Ark, Dec. 19.—The man brought up from Jefferson yesterday as one of the train robbers had his examination to-day before United States Commissioner Taylor, and was admitted to bail in the sum of $1600, which he failed to give and is in jail. James C. Ravins, the fireman who was on the train that was robbed, still insists that this is the man who boarded the locomotive. It is said that other circumstances point to his guilt.
